Investment Update - June

The Brexit outcome introduces new shorter-term challenges to global economic growth and markets. The impact of Brexit could cause UK to flirt with recession, but monetary policy is likely to be looser than would otherwise have been, acting as a stimulant in some areas. In the light of what we expect will be an extended period of heightened uncertainty at both a political and economic level, we feel this is likely to translate into further market volatility and a backdrop that means proceeding with more caution than usual. We are therefore taking a more defensive stance across all investment strategies by reducing equity exposure further, having taken a more neutral stance in the early part of the second quarter. Changes to the investments will be implemented in early July ahead of the standard quarterly rebalance, with further changes expected over the coming weeks. ARC's Q2 provisional numbers are likely to be overstated given how they collate their interim data versus how the strategy's returns are priced. With a more stable market backdrop, we expect this anomaly to normalise over coming reporting periods.
