Investment objective

To preserve capital in real (inflation-adjusted) terms over the medium to longer term. Investors should expect low levels of reward and a low correlation to stockmarket behaviour, including modest fluctuations in values.

Risk profile

The strategy is managed in accordance with Dynamic Planner risk profile 3 and is part of their Risk Targeted Managed ('RTM') offering. The strategy's expected volatility is targeted to stay within the assigned Dynamic Planner risk profile's boundaries.

About the Risk Targeted Managed Service

Our Risk Targeted ('RT') Managed Service consists of five actively managed investment growth strategies (Risk Targeted 3-7). Each strategy has a different level of risk and expected return, and are rigorously mapped within the volatility boundaries assigned to specific Dynamic Planner risk profiles (RTM 3-7).

Investment update

Asset returns were strong over May with developed market equities and global bonds rising 4.1% and 1.3% respectively in local currency terms. After a weak April, the US equity market rebounded strongly with growth stocks to the fore as rate expectations fell. Uncertainty over the interest rate outlook continues to bring some volatility however market momentum remains positive on the back of a strong corporate earnings season and improving economic data. On the inflation front, data stemming from the US in May was mixed. While the potential timing of interest rate cuts has been pushed forward, some loosening of policy in the US is still expected this year. European markets also performed well in May, rising just under 4%, as positive GDP growth was confirmed for Q1 and corporate earnings announcements surprised on the upside. Despite a recent modest tick up in inflation the European Central Bank continues to signal a potential rate cut in June. The UK market rose 2.5%, lagging the US and eurozone largely due to its 'value' bias and high exposure to energy stocks, which were impacted by a falling oil price. UK inflation fell to 2.3% and is expected to fall further still in the short term. Asian markets also rose overall but lagged their developed peers. We continue to see tailwinds, which should be supportive for financial markets in the coming months. As such, no changes were made over the month as the strategy remains at the upper end of its corresponding Dynamic Planner risk profile. We expect further reductions in inflation towards central bank targets and a consequent easing of financial conditions as tight monetary policy is unwound. Evidence suggests that economic growth is recovering globally and this should be accompanied by growth in corporate earnings and improved profit margins. Strong recent earnings numbers from companies in the US (and elsewhere) continue to support equity markets and justify valuations. We are having to tolerate unusually high levels of volatility in sovereign bond markets but expect our exposure to be rewarded over the course of the next 12 months given our views on inflation and central bank policy. The yields available in investment grade credit remain compelling in our view and spreads are proving resilient. Our core alternatives funds continue to perform well, providing clear diversification benefits in times of market weakness.
