Investment objective

To build capital in real (inflation-adjusted) terms over the medium to longer term. Investors should expect reasonable correlation to stock market behaviour and rewards, including quite sharp fluctuations in values, but also some protection in times of market weakness.

Risk profile

The strategy is managed with a maximum target of 60% equity market exposure and is categorised as a Bordier Risk Profile 3 and Defaqto Risk Rating 5 (Balanced).

About the Hybrid Passive Managed Service

Our Hybrid Passive Managed Service consists of five actively managed investment strategies, ranging from Defensive to Adventurous, that provide lower cost access to our discretionary fund management capabilities through the combination of active and passive collective investments. Each strategy has a different level of risk and potential return, with risk categorised by equity market exposure that increases in increments of 20% for each strategy. The service provides a solution that, when cost considerations are paramount, does not compromise on quality.

Investment update

2024 has so far been a good year for equity markets however October proved to be a weaker month. Bond yields also rose materially in most key regions, which meant values fell. Sentiment in the US was impacted by some slightly higher-than-expected inflation numbers which, together with some strong employment data, moderated expectations around likely interest rate cuts. Uncertainty surrounding the result and potential impact of the US election also weighed on investor sentiment. In Europe, the European Central Bank announced a third 25 basis point rate cut in response to further data pointing to an economic slowdown. This action was not, however, enough to prevent European markets falling around 2% in sterling terms. The UK market also fell, albeit the positive effect of a strengthening US dollar on companies with significant dollar-based earnings provided some support. Emerging markets retreated following September's gains, with the strength in the US dollar weighing heavily on the region. Japan was the one bright spot, posting a positive return in local currency terms and demonstrating how allocating to the region can provide valuable diversification benefits due to its relatively low correlation with other major markets. Fluctuating rate expectations have caused some market volatility in recent weeks however the strategy's base case remains for a 'soft' landing, with inflationary pressures remaining under control and positive global economic growth intact. Further reductions in interest rates are expected across the developed world and the outlook (and forecasts) for corporate earnings looks encouraging moving into 2025. This backdrop should be supportive for equity markets, therefore the strategy remains at the top end of its allowable equity range. We are also positive on the outlook for fixed income assets, where history suggests that attractive returns typically follow after the first rate cut in a loosening cycle. During the month we made a modest change within the fixed interest sector to slightly reduce duration. Our strategic bond managers are making a similar move, reflecting the fact that yields have already shifted down in anticipation of further rate cuts. We are retaining some exposure to some low volatility absolute return funds, which continue to play a valuable role in portfolios during periods of market weakness.
